

STUDENT EXPULSION

The Division Board has the authority to expel any student from the schools of the Division for conduct detrimental to the normal functioning of the school.

Expulsion should come only as a last resort, and after consultation with the parents or legal guardians of the student concerned. Board members should have been made aware of the seriousness of the student's conduct before receiving a recommendation for expulsion by means of a suspension letter or a report by the Superintendent on the conduct of the student concerned.

A recommendation for expulsion may be made to the Board by the Superintendent of Schools or by the School Administration.
